Meet the Faces and Places

OF CHERRY CREEK NORTH SMALL BUSINESSES

“ Syrup is the anchor to the Doherty Restaurant Group and Cherry Creek has always been good to me. I love coming here on Sunday mornings and seeing people that come here before church. Then, I'll come back in the afternoon and see a lot of loyal customers. They've been there through thick and thin, and I couldn't do it without the neighborhood. **”

TIM DOHERTY

Owner of Syrup

“ It's been great for us to understand the sense of community in Cherry Creek North. It's truly very special. First, because we get a ton of foot traffic; and second, there are so many other businesses. Everyone has been so proactive about collaborating and cross-promoting. We feel so much support from this community, which I think is very unique and hard to find in other neighborhoods. **”

KATIE WAFER

Owner of Hydrate IV Bar

“ It calls something out in me—the greenery, the high-rises—it's all a beautiful combination, if you ask me. And it does quiet a person's soul, just walking around in Cherry Creek and seeing the 'shop small' mentality throughout. It's the perfect little haven. **”

ANDI SIGLER

Founder of Vive Float Studio+

“ Thirty-six years ago, my father had the vision that this is the right spot for us. Cherry Creek North is different from anywhere else in Denver. I think it's always going to be our hub. We're immigrants to this country who didn't come with much of anything and we've done well. We've done well because the community has embraced us and supported us. We greatly appreciate it... Wherever we can, we try to keep our involvement local. **”
